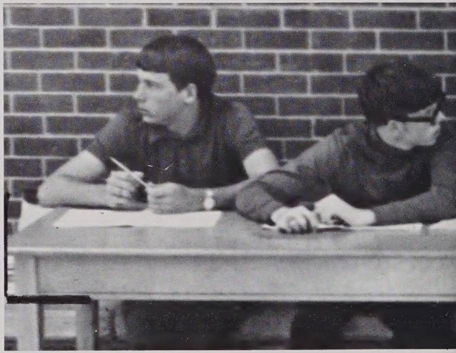
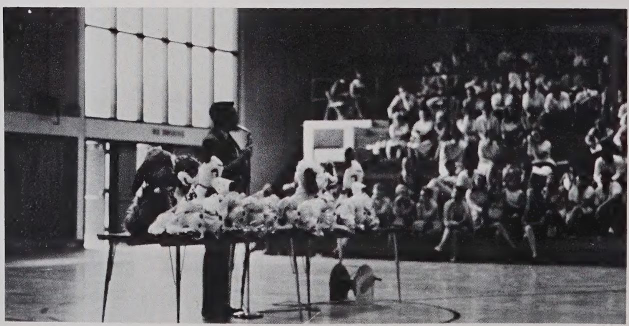
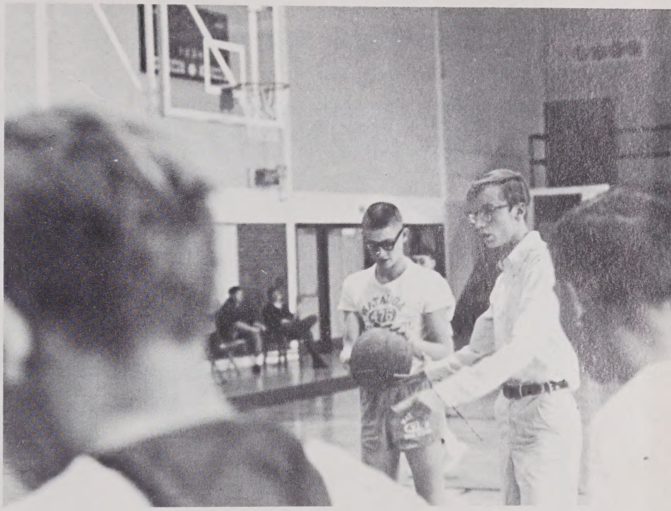
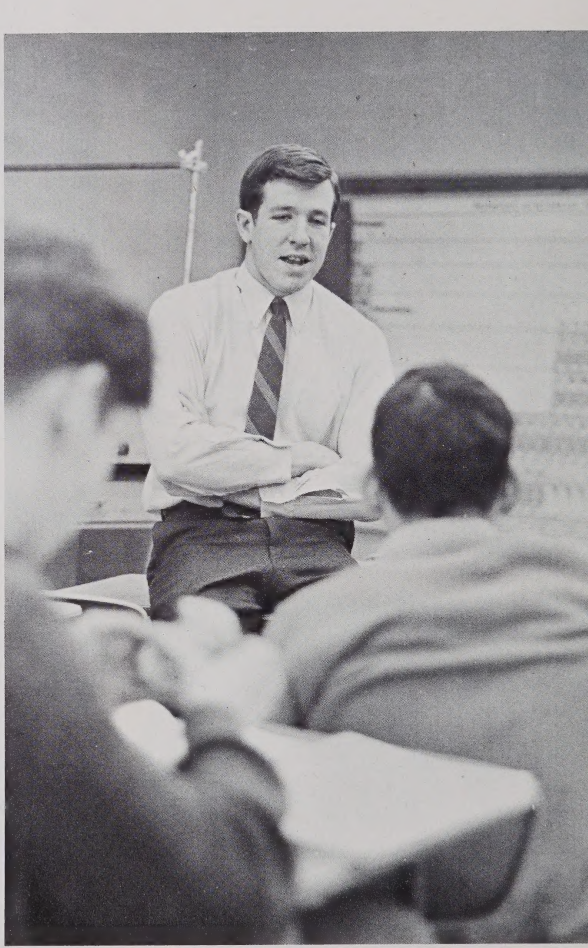
Freshmen of 1966 Become Keystone Class of 1969

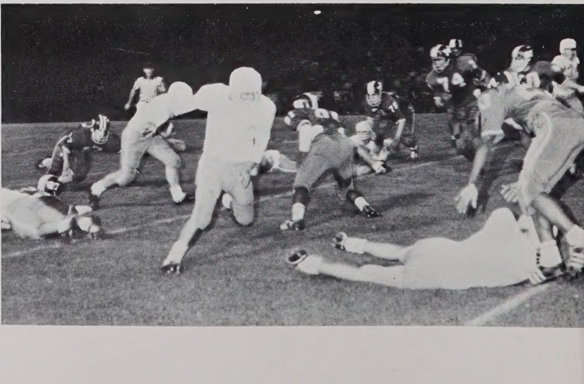
Every year has been a building process. In the fall of 1965, the first senior class began the foundation of this process which has been added to and improved upon with each successive year, resulting in a stronger Watauga. Succeeding in some endeavors, failing in others, completing a goal or falling short, installing new ideas, abandoning set patterns — these were transmitted to the young school. The seniors represented the culmination of four years of accomplishments. Watauga's first four-year class reached the destination established by the 1966 class. The first epoch of the school's history has materialized.







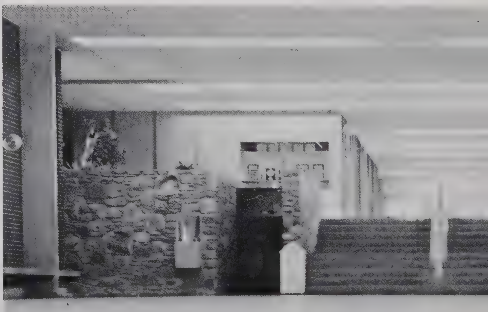




Old Ties and Loyalties Toward One Goal

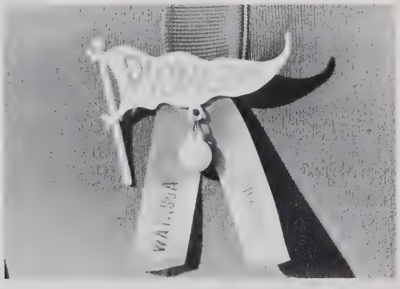
Individuals have contributed to making Watauga what it is today, but more is owed to those who support her and will continue to do so. Striving to be a whole body is difficult, for the old ties to the five separate schools that were merged to create Watauga High School hamper any feeling of unity. Yet, these loyalties to the past bind the students to Watauga – they have the determination to be unparalleled and the optimism that is required for success. Unity is recognized in the unique sentiment felt for the finished product of the combination of schools. After four years, completeness is realized.

54



Watauga's Advancement Comes From Involvement

Involvement was another component of the success of Watauga High School. By participation in class projects, athletic and club functions, or art and music activities, students began to appreciate Watauga's offerings and to take advantage of these opportunities to develop their own potentials. Each personal achievement added to the school's enrichment. Obligations were made and fulfilled, resulting in a feeling of one's responsibility for Watauga's advancement. The cornerstone for the years to come was laid when those who cared enought to be committed to furthering Watauga High School's progress became involved.



Every building process contains, as an integral part, an established educational background. The faculty and administration of Watauga High School were contributors to the academic forces behind the school's prosperity. Any advances made in education were initiated in the curriculum for the benefit of the students. The responsibility of leading, guiding, and molding students was not taken lightly. Watauga has provided a good foundation for the posterity of the 1966 class. Experienced faculty members are able to cope with and understand each difficulty and design a suitable routine to fit each individual.

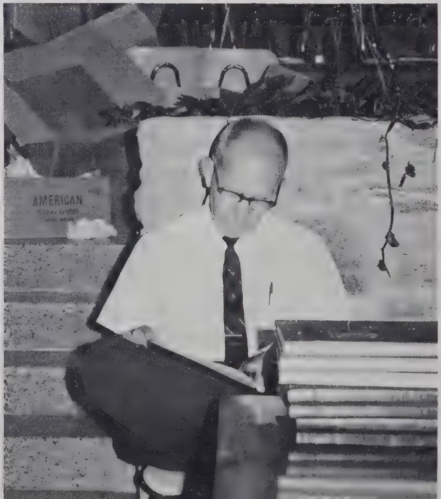
ACADEMICS



Serving as a laboratory school for Appalachian State University, Watauga High School expanded its curriculum in 1968-69 in foreign language, business, and home economics. Comprised of seventy-two staff members and twelve course areas, the program offered to each student the opportunity to chose the area in which his interests and capabilities could be combined.

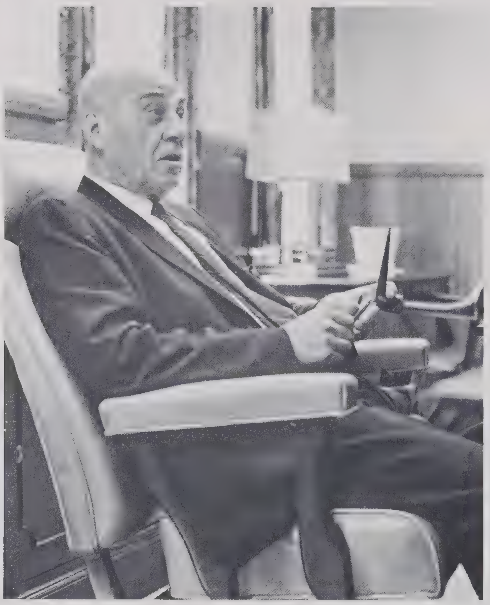
Many Avenues of Cooperation Benefit Students

In 1965 an agreement between the Watauga County Board of Education and the trustees of Appalachian State University was arrived at to promote cooperative efforts between the two institutions in operating the new Watauga High School.

Among the reciprocal activities were supplements paid by the University to the faculty salaries. The University provided to Watauga the use of Conrad Stadium for home football games. The University students were provided an area for practice teaching and observations of a typical classroom at work. These many avenues of cooperation benefitted both schools.



Dr. William H. Plemons, president of Appalachian State University, worked with the board of education to adjust WHS and ASU activities.

TYPES OF MAGAZINES

Mrs. Beverly Hawkins' English IV class listens attentively as she describes different types of magazines to Linda Phillips and Charles Greer.

Mrs. Coleen Trexler, graduate assistant from A.S.U., teaches a consumer math class the fundamentals of math that can be used everyday.

Angell Resigns As County School Superintendent

W. Guy Angell, who served Watauga County as school superintendent for almost fourteen years, contributed a great deal of planning and work for the new consolidated high school.

The authority for major decisions pertaining to the educational program of Watauga High School rested with the Watauga County Board of Education—three men elected by the voters of the county—and a superintendent, appointed by the Board. These men prepared the school calendar, reviewed the budget, and made any long-range plans that were deemed necessary.

After serving as superintendent of schools since August, 1955, and seeing the new high school open its doors, W. Guy Angell resigned his position January 15, 1969, to become the administrator of Blowing Rock Hospital and Extended Care Center.

WATAUGA COUNTY BOARD OF EDUCATION. Hugh Hagaman; Mack Brown, Chairman; H. W. Mast; W. Guy Angell, Superintendent.

Principals Keep Close Watch on All Activities

Dr. N. A. Miller, Watauga's principal, and Mr. Carl Fidler, assistant principal, had the difficult job of maintaining school order. By keeping a close watch on all Watauga's activities, these two men had the day-to-day task to correcting young offenders and of entertaining visitors to the school.

Schedules were worked out and later adjusted by Dr. Miller. Mr. Fidler was in charge of buses and the safe arrival and departure of students who drove their cars. Both men were ready and willing to listen to students and faculty members and to help in the prevention or solution of their problems.

Mr. Fidler, secretary Martha Calloway, and Dr. Miller display their personal pride in the school's football conference championship trophy.

Assistant principal Carl Fidler was in charge of student discipline and of all matters pertaining to bus and automobile transportation.

Completing his fourth year as principal, Dr. "Andy" Miller has seen the feeling of unity and pride which has taken place in the school.

Guidance and Health Services Play Major Roles

Office Personnel

Mrs. Gladys Shelton, the school's bookkeeper, was responsible for balancing the books and taking care of all monies turned in to the office. Mrs. Martha Calloway and Miss Wanda Farthing also helped by typing daily calendars, issuing absentee admit slips for students, and answering the phone to take the numerous personal and official messages for the school.

In the Guidance Office, Mrs. Mickey Jones kept the permanent files on all students at Watauga for the counselors' use. The librarian-teacher aide, Mrs. Norma Wilcox, had duties in the library ranging from secretarial to reference librarian.

As the school's bookkeeper, Mrs. Gladys E. Shelton finds that a great deal of cooperation is required between the office and other personnel.

Miss Wanda Farthing types the morning bulletin for the next school day. All coming events for the day are included on these bulletins.

Counselors and Nurse

If any student needed advice concerning his schedule or future plans, he was welcome anytime in the offices of Watauga's two guidance counselors, Mrs. Grace Mast and Mrs. Margaret Gragg. As a help to seniors and juniors, the guidance counselors planned "Career Night" and "College Night," designed to provide information about schools in North Carolina and courses that each offered.

Mrs. Harrill, serving as the school nurse, was always available to advise students on any health problems. She also sponsored discussions on "Family Living" during study halls.

The guidance counselors, Mrs. Grace B. Mast and Mrs. Margaret M. Gragg, and the school nurse, Mrs. Lois E. Harrill, find few moments of rest.

Mrs. Denoris ("Mickey") Jones, is the secretary in the guidance office.

In keeping drinking facilities sanitary, Mrs. Charlotte Aldridge performs one of her many duties as the school's maid.

Providing the students of Watauga High School with well-balanced and inexpensive meals was the task of the lunchroom staff last year. Mrs. Wiley Smith, dietitian, and her assistants provided more than eleven hundred students with meals, partially financed by federal assistance.

Credit for the cleanliness and the ability of the school to run smoothly mechanically was given to the maintenance crew. These people, assisted by students working during their study halls, provided the students with sparkling windows, clean furniture, and an immaculate environment.

Tom Frady, school custodian in charge of all maintenance, checks one of the building's fire hydrants to make sure it is in working order.

Johnny Cornett, library assistant, stamps Larry Cornett's library book as Deloyce Greene makes sure that Larry signs the library card.

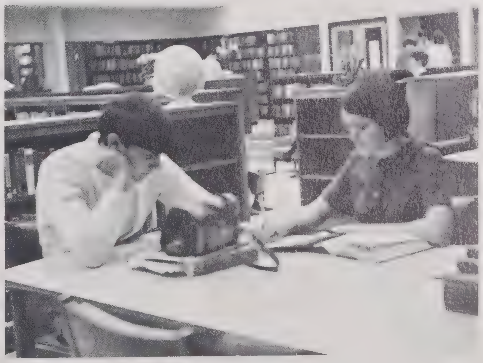
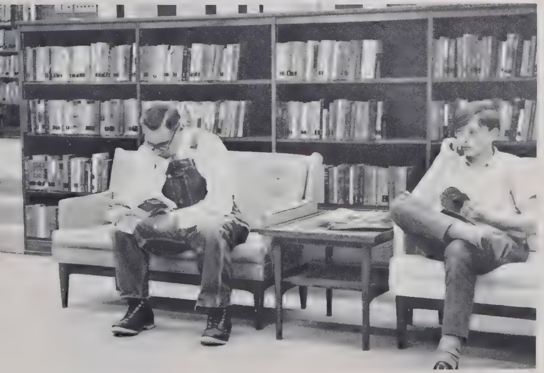
Library Aides Good Thinking and Learning Habits

The library was a service agency, a teaching agency, a book center, and a reading center. It had no distinct subject matter itself but provided material for all subjects and the interests of pupils and teachers. In the library the books and materials to satisfy the interests and meet the needs of pupils and teachers were organized, cataloged, shelved, and displayed so as to be easily found and used. The library aided in developing good thinking and learning habits. Mrs. Randall, head librarian, and Mrs. Angell, assisted by Mrs. Wilcox, teacher aide, were available when students needed library materials.

Larry Pitts and Dinah Mitchell make use of the school library's varied selection of reference books and other available materials.





As Keith Proffit eyes his Sadie Hawkins outfit, Mr. Boyden Atwood relaxes by reading a magazine in the reading section of the library.

Because improved communication is essential, the English Department concentrated its efforts on improving the ability of students to read, write, listen, and speak effectively. It was the aim of the department to equip students with the knowledge cope with written and oral problems encountered. To emphasize the importance of the proper communication skills, the state requires each student to take four years of English.

Oral book reports, term papers, class discussions, extemporaneous speeches, and debates were a few of the methods employed by teachers in furthering their students' knowledge of English.

Foreign Language Teaches Foreign Cultures

The Foreign Language Department of Watauga High offered French I and II, Latin I and II, and Spanish I, II, III, and IV. A special project in French I was the teaching of a class by four graduate students from Appalachian State University under the supervision of Miss Howell from Appalachian.

Among the various cultural activities of the Foreign Language Department were foreign plays, authentic meals, native dances, guest speakers who talked about customs and education in foreign countries, and audio visual aids to assist students in seeing what the various foreign countries are really like.

Driver Education Encourages Safety on Highways

Bobby F. McConnell

Nancy W. Penick

Mr. Bobby McConnell and Mrs. Nancy Penick taught sophomores to be responsible, safe, and courteous drivers. The Driver Education course included state requirements of thirty hours of classroom instruction with six additional hours of actual under-the-wheel training and twelve hours of in-the-car observation of the other student drivers.

Guest speakers encouraged enthusiasm and interest by presenting driving statistics through the presentation of films and filmstrips as part of the classroom instruction. From this meaningful program, well-informed and alert drivers resulted.

Carolyn Wright, Neeta Brown, and Jimmy Burns observe Mrs. Nancy Penick as she shows them the proper technique of checking oil in a car.

This poster, drawn by Dale Taylor, was chosen by Mrs. Penick to receive first prize in the reading class's highway safety poster contest.

Mathematics was a course that could be used and applied in reference to many other courses. Watauga's Mathematics Department included courses in general math, Algebra I and II, geometry, advanced math, and consumer math.

Time, effort, and precision were required to succeed in many math course. Accuracy and logical reasoning were stressed in the advanced courses while a more practical application was taught to those who needed additional training before attempting more difficult work. Each student could decide his own progress by the way in which he applied himself in his studies.

In order to keep up with the fantastic discoveries that have been made in the field of science, the Science Department of Watauga offered general science, biology, physiology, chemistry, physics, and senior science. Laboratory exercises, class projects, group discussions, and individual projects acquainted the students with procedures of scientific experimentation and investigation on various levels.

The facilities available in the school were well equipped. Carefully supervised experiments increased the students' knowledge of laboratory techniques, with emphasis placed on safety.

Watauga High School's Social Studies Department presented a variety of courses to students during the 1968-1969 school year. Courses were offered in civics, American history, world history, contemporary affairs, and geography.

Since most high school students are deficient in the knowledge of geography, special emphasis was placed on map work in geography classes. Students learned not only the facts and events that made history, but also how to become better informed American citizens in order to play a significant role in the making of history and in the governing of our country.

Physical Education Emphasizes Physical Agility

Joey Miller goes through his warm-up exercises on the parallel bars in one of the physical education classes.

H. Carter Lentz

Carolyn C. Moore

Stressing physical and mental fitness, the Physical Education Department provided many activities to assist students in achieving their own goals in good health. The trampoline and tumbling mats and basketball, softball, and baseball equipment were made available to physical education students. A health textbook, accenting safety practices and attitudes, was used to supplement the many sports activities.

Freshmen were required to take P.E. I and health. In P.E. I and II, sophomores, juniors, and seniors benefitted from a full weak of planned physical activities.

The boys in Physical Education I enjoy playing basketball while learning techniques required of those who may play varsity ball later.

Watauga High School sponsored five choral groups: Girls' Chorus, Men's Chorus, Concert Choir, Choral Ensemble, and the Close Harmony Octet. Under the direction of Mr. Eugene Wilson, each choral group was introduced to the general principles of singing, proper procedures in stage performance, and the various types of music.

The 72-member band represented the school at pep rallies, football games, district and state band contests, parades, and concerts for the public. Interpretation of music and a good understanding of basic musical terms was stressed in band.

Music Provides Chance for Developing Talents

Kathy Millsaps, Shirley Barnes, Ruthie Hartley, and Cindy Wood harmonize during rehearsal of the Girls' Chorus, one of the four vocal groups who performed at various functions during the school year.

Students studied art composition by becoming acquainted with the masters of art from ancient times to the present. They also learned to use such skills as perspective drawing, landscaping, portraits and figure drawing, and color harmony and finger paint. Art students were encouraged to display their work in a variety of art contests and shows, both at home and away.

The Speech and Drama Department attempted to develop an acquaintance with and an appreciation for dramatics, the theater, and performing. It also emphasized improvement of conversational speech, the study of phonetics, and use of breath support.

Governor's School nominee, Paul Ragan, displays six of the sixteen paintings that were entered in the Governor's School competition.

Art and Drama Courses Encourage Self-Expression

Mr. Bill Ross prepares to play a record for his speech and drama class. In this class students learn the fundamentals of speaking and acting.

Mrs. Betty Wells, art teacher, checks over the many art projects turned in by her students in an attempt to find some bulletin board displays.

Home Economics Prepares Girls for Useful Lives

Mrs. Graham gives Pam Miller some individual instruction on a project she has undertaken for credit in the Home Economics I sewing class.

Joyce S. Davis

Kathleen M. Dougherty

In home economics, opportunities were offered for experience in home management, housing, preparation of economical but nutritious meals, child care, grooming, and garment construction. The courses also featured lessons in etiquette, selecting wardrobes, and family life. The classes gave teas and receptions to learn the art of entertaining. A special class was offered for seniors who had not studied homemaking previously. The over-all purpose of home economics was to provide opportunities for the individual to prepare herself for a useful and a satisfying personal, family, and community.

Mrs. Davis's Home Economics II class enjoys the hospitality extended at an afternoon tea in the J. B. Winkler home on the Blowing Rock Road.

Students Prepare for Future Business Employment

The Business Education Department of Watauga High offered instruction in various fields to prepare students for good positions in the business world. By offering bookkeeping, typing, office practice, shorthand, business math, and business English, students were aided in planning their careers in the business world; and, as a result, they became more intelligent users of the goods and services of business. Students had an opportunity to use these skills by working in the school office and assisting teachers with clerical work. The knowledge of typing manuscript form aided in the preparation of personal assignments.

Carpentry and Bricklaying Classes Build House

The carpentry and bricklaying classes at Watauga High School were designed to meet the needs of students who wished to obtain full-time employment following high school graduation. As their project for the year, they built the framework for the custodian's house, located at the entrance to the school parking lot.

Working from their headquarters at Cove Creek, the bricklaying classes gained much valuable experience through their building projects. They also gained knowledge of bricklaying through classroom study. One of their projects was to brick-veneer and build a fireplace in the school custodian's house.

The carpentry students wind up the first stages of building the school custodian's new house by completing the foundation, basement, and floor.

With the framework well under way, the bricklaying and carpentry classes' project for the year takes the shape of a real, honest-to-goodness house.

Mr. John Smith's truck is used to take materials from the school to the students who are working on the custodian's house. Carpentry work almost completed, bricklaying will soon begin.

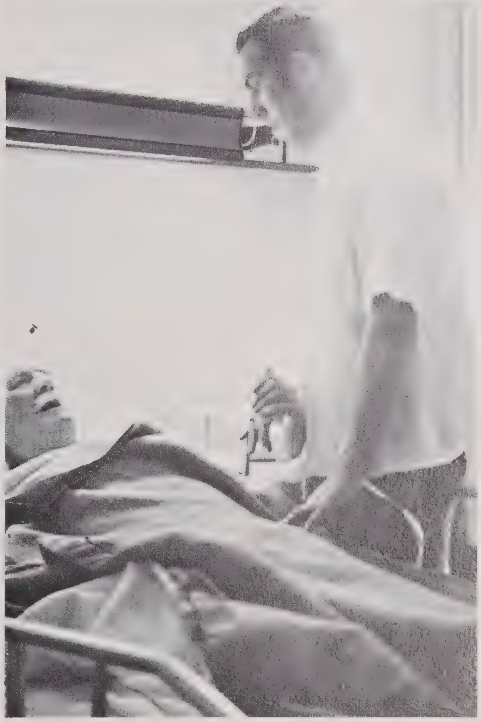
Introduction to Vocations provided an opportunity for freshman students to explore, in a classroom situation their future educational and occupational plans.

Industrial Cooperative Training provided classroom instruction in industrial safety education, consumer economics, and interview training, as well as on-the-job training.

Distributive Education offered instruction in retailing and personal salesmanship. This supervised work experience for juniors and seniors, with pay and high school credit, combined morning classroom instruction with afternoon employment.



I. C. T. student Larry Ward carries out one of his many duties as an orderly at Watauga County Hospital by checking this patient's pulse.

Industrial Arts Teaches Architectural Designing

The Mechanical Drawing curricula included architectural drawing, machine drawing, and different fields of drafting. From this course concise, logical thinking, neatness, and proficiency in the subject matter were developed. During the latter part of the year students were allowed to create and design object and architectural plans.

Drafting and Blueprint Reading was designed for students who wished to find employment in the construction industry. It dealt with interpretation of the blueprint process, actual construction, and the implementation of its practical use.

Roger L. Harwood

The Mechanical Drawing teacher, Roger Harwood, illustrates for Douglas Petrey the correct technique for drawing a house plan in perspective.

Katie Greene, Margaret Barnes, and Debbie Autrey prove that Mechanical Drawing can be as rewarding for girls as for boys. Future housewives will find being able to read house-plans very useful.

Vocational Students Explore Job Opportunities

Auto mechanics students look on as Larry Hodge prepares to explain how the intricate piece of equipment that they will soon be using works.

Auto Mechanics, a three-hour course, covered theory of operation and construction, maintenance, repair, and adjustments of automotive components.

Construction Industries served as an exploration of and introduction to vocational education. The subject areas studied were mechanical drawing, basic electricity and electronics, sheet metal work, and woodworking.

Among the subjects offered in the agriculture courses were horticulture, livestock, poultry, crops and soils, and forestry. Students visited farms to get a first-hand view of farm life.

ROYAL POSTURE

Drawing men from all over Watauga County, the vocational courses offered in the Adult Education program have proved to be among the most popular courses taught for adults at Watauga High School.

Adult Education instructor, Roger Harwood, explains some of the fine points of mechanical drawing to Melvin Norris and son Jimmy Norris.

Through the Watauga County Board of Education, Caldwell Technical Institute, and the federal government, over four hundred adults were able to take advantage of adult education classes taught at Watauga High School.

Some students enrolled in these classes to learn new skills such as typing, bookkeeping, and sewing. Others learned how to build and repair furniture, how to keep physically fit, and how to draw and read blueprints. The courses taught provided the students with hobbies which may be used either in later life or as a source of present employment.

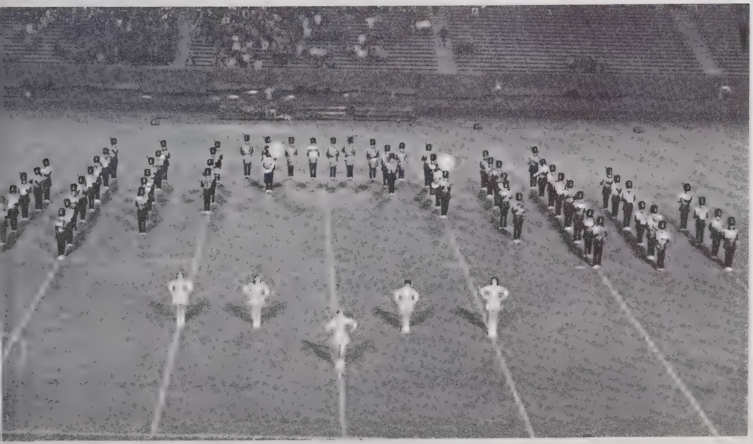
"Which clubs should I choose to join?" This was a familiar question each student asked himself as the school year began. A student had to consider his own interests and abilities and then decide which clubs offered what he most desired. As student interest increased, the results were indicated by the enrollment and active member participation in each club.



Student Council Designates Senior Privileges

The Student Council provided an opportunity for students to share in the management of school affairs and to develop good citizenship, and it provided practical experiences in the democratic form of government. By electing qualified homeroom representatives, the student body had an active voice in the government of Watauga High School.

The magazine sale, "Teacher Appreciation Week," "Operation Christmas Spirit," "Senior Privilege Week," and activities designed to promote better student-faculty relationships were among the more important achievements of the Student Council.

Mr. Carl Wyatt explains how to make Watauga's "Magazine Sale" a success. His campaign accented good salesmanship and persistance.

Relating the happenings of Watauga's fourth year in existance was a day-to-day task of the 1969 yearbook staff. Few events that took place slipped by the staff photographer, and each event was recorded as the book was compiled and edited.

The staff's guided tour of Delmar Publishing Company in Charlotte revealed more precisely the intricate steps that go into yearbook production. Conferences with yearbook company representative Leon Lewis gave the staff new ideas to make the book's coverage more meaningful. The school's dark room was used for the first time for developing and printing pictures.

Serving as a mirror of school life, the POWDERHORN reported all news, sports, editorials, and features during the 1969 school year. The newspaper was distributed once a month in homerooms. As well as showing off the staff members' talents, the paper gave the students a chance to see their own work in print.

For the Sweetheart Dance, the POWDERHORN staff sponsored a new beauty court. Girls from any class were eligible to be nominated and elected by the student body. The queen and her court were crowned at the Sweetheart Dance, with a follow-up news story in the following edition of the newspaper.

Art Club Sponsors Contest For Watauga's Artists

The purpose of the Art Club was to help expand the students' artistic abilities and interests. The facilities available in the Art Department acquainted the students more with the different types of opportunities existing in the art field.

The club sponsored an art contest which was open to all students at Watauga High. The winning picture in each category was displayed in the showcase bordering the library. For the first Parent-Teacher-Student Associational meeting, the Art Club displayed paintings and sketches. These remained up the following day for the students to observe and enjoy.

Practice makes perfect! Precision and diligent work were demanded by Mr. Otis Strother, the band's director, to perfect the performances of Watauga High's marching band.

At pep rallies, football games, holiday programs, and graduation exercises, the band created a mood to suit each event. They participated in the Carrousel Parade in Charlotte; in Wake Forest's "Band Day"; in the state contest in Greensboro; in Lees-McRae College's homecoming; and in Appalachian State University's homecoming. Mr. Steve Jordon, of ASU, assisted Mr. Strother in leading the group during the fall term.

Music is always an integral part of any school. At Watauga High, the four choruses tried to evoke a laugh, develop potential talent, and leave an indelible impression on all participants and listeners. Selections of sacred and secular music, as well as art songs, were presented in assembly programs, concerts, churches, and local PTSA meetings.

The Choral Ensemble, the Mixed Chorus, and the Girls' Chorus traveled to Marion on March 15 to participate in the North Carolina Choral Festival. The Ensemble earned a "Superior" rating; the other two choruses received an "Excellent" rating.

Inter-Club Council Co-Ordinates Club Activities

The Inter-Club Council consisted of presidents of clubs and classes, editors of the yearbook and newspaper, and the heads of other organizations under the school's jurisdiction.

To unite the clubs and coordinate their activities and projects to benefit the school was the club's objective. One of the projects was conducting a survey to see how many students were involved in club activities and to see what new clubs were needed or desired by the students. The Inter-Club Council provided ping-pong tables in the student lobby during both lunch periods as a service to the students and faculty.

By mastering the techniques of debating, members learned to respect the opinions of others and to present their own views in an objective manner.

Mrs. Mamola and nine other members of the Society attended a debate workshop at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill for the purpose of learning more about debating fundamentals. Richard Randall and Tim Westmoreland, affirmative team, won in the district round robin held in Bakersville.

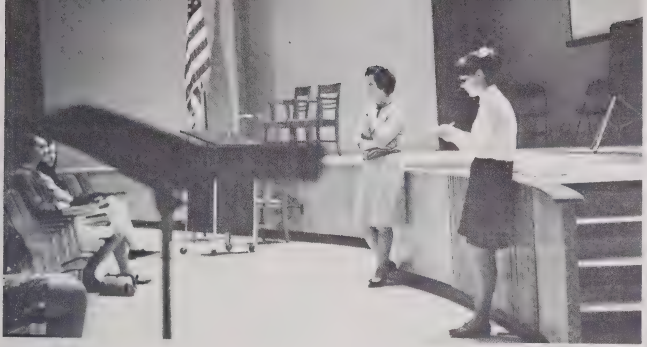
Student Directory Jointly Sponsored By F.T.A.

The pledge of the Future Teachers of America sums up the total ambitions of students interested in teaching as a career. Included in the pledge are Physical Vitality, Mental Vigor, Moral Strength, Wholesome Personality, Helpfulness, Knowledge, and Leadership. These are the qualities needed by any serious and conscientious teacher.

Continuing their support of the Korean orphan, Jim Jung Ai, and co-sponsoring with the FBLA the Student Directory—which contained personal information about each student—were major projects of the Future Teachers of America.

Members of the Future Teachers of America Club relax and discuss the filmstrip they have just seen entitled "And Gladly Teach," which explained the important role a teacher plays in child development.



Mrs. Harrill waits patiently for president Melinda Winkler to bring the meeting to order and have the membership roll called, after which she will present a filmstrip on LSD to the group.

One of the largest clubs at Watauga High School, the Health Careers Club furnished students who were interested in health-related fields the opportunity to explore and observe first-hand the activities involved in the various fields.

The club assisted the Heart Association, the Cancer Society, and the Easter Seals Society in promoting their work. For those interested in working with the mentally retarded, a trip to Western Carolina Center in Morganton provided them with new ideas on the different techniques used in treating the patients and with information on ways to handle various situations.

By promoting appreciation of the joys of home-making, the Future Homemakers of America fostered the value of home economics. The club, while stressing the importance of respecting the individual and home, also showed the leadership and involvement one could anticipate in the community.

The theme for the past year was citizenship. The issue was discussed in relation to international problems. The club gained valuable knowledge of home-making by first-hand experience and practice sessions. The importance of FHA will continue to grow and be understood as its teachings are applied in the home.

Mrs. Bess Crawford, a teacher at Appalachian Elementary School, describes her trip around the world to the FHA and illustrates with maps and pictures the different countries she visited.

The WHS chapter of the Future Business Leaders of America stressed the importance of the development of competent, aggressive business leaders and of the proper choice of business career by young men and women. Any person enrolled in a business education class was eligible to join. By encouraging members to improve in scholarship, school loyalty, and affairs of the home and community, the club created more understanding of the preparation required to meet standards set by business experts. In an impressive ceremony held in February, the club became affiliated with the state and national FBLA organizations.

VICA Organized at Watauga as Vocational Club

A new club organized at Watauga High School last year was the Vocational Industrial Club of America. The club's purpose was to foster a wholesome understanding of the functions of labor and management organizations while encouraging a deep respect for the dignity of work in preparation for careers in vocational occupations.

Students in classes such as bricklaying, carpentry, auto mechanics, and other vocational classes were eligible for membership in the club. These students worked together to carry out activities and projects in a democratic manner.

D.E. Club Members Attend Leadership Conference

Each member of the Distributive Education Club was employed by a local business in the afternoon, thereby receiving on-the-job training as well as a high school education.

One project of the club was selling concessions in the student lobby during basketball games. At the end of school, all employers who participated in the D.E. program were guests at a banquet given by the club members. Members also attended a District Leadership Conference in Gastonia. Marlene Wilson was entered as the club's contestant in a district beauty contest, where judging was based on poise, talent, and appearance.

Mr. Jack Evans, sponsor, talks to D.E. students--who are also club members—about operating the concession stand during the basketball games. The members also discuss ways to raise additional funds.

Landscaping School Grounds Is F.F.A. Project

Students enrolled in vocational agriculture classes were eligible for membership in the Future Farmers of America Club. The objectives of the club was to explore the many opportunities and advancements made in the agricultural area and to develop the students' ability in this field.

Joint sponsorship of the Cove Creek Horse Show was the major acitivity of the year. Many boys were also able to attend the North Carolina State Fair in Raleigh for state-wide information about new agricultural techniques and advanced farming ideas. The boys also helped in the landscaping of Watauga High School.

Find a patient and reliable upperclassman who is willing to serve his school and community; train him to be a careful and alert driver—and he is prepared for the responsibility of bus driving. Along with transporting high school and elementary students to and from school, drivers were responsible for putting on tire chains in the snow and the general maintenance of all the buses. They were also responsible for the students' behavior on the buses. The drivers were lectured by Mr. Billings, the State Patrol, and Mr. Fidler on the rules of safe driving and the responsibilities of driving a school bus.

Any boy interested in hunting was eligible to join the Wildlife Club. The major objective of the club was to promote sportsmanship and hunting techniques and safety.

Activities for the year included camping trips, films from the North Carolina Wildlife Resources Commissions, films contributed by the state of Tennessee, and discussion groups. Members of the club were required to build a bird house, feeder, or a squirrel box. During club meetings the members were given a chance to observe, study and enjoy the nature of areas in and surrounding Boone as an outside activity.

As snow began to fall, students wishing to get out in May began worrying, while the thrills of "soaring" or "tumbling" down the slopes of Beech Mountain were in the minds of members of the Ski Club. A chartered bus provided transportation for club members from the high school to Beech Mountain.

Experienced instructors guided beginning, intermediate, and advanced skiers in the basic skiing techniques. The members of the Ski Club enjoyed the facilities of the new and larger slopes, new equipment, buildings, and a cafeteria. These new facilities helped ease crowded conditions at the ski resort.

Pep Club Presents Skits To Boost School Spirit

The enthusiasm at pep rallies, games, and other activities of Watauga was a direct result of the work advanced by the Pep Club. By sponsoring bonfires, skits, and the "Pioneer"—the mascot of Watauga High School—the club furthered school spirit. Buses were chartered to give students an opportunity to attend "away" games. Although this was the chief function of the club, no profit was made from the students' bus fares. Representation of Watauga's students at away games was greatly increased, and much credit for this was given to the Pep Club. As a large club, it contributed much to the vivacity of Watauga.

Girls' Monogram Club Sells Mums for Homecoming

After a club meeting, Tanya Shook (center) discusses the upcoming basketball game with Jane Shearin and Minnie Adams, as Kay Oakes listens.

Designed as a service club to the community and school, the Girls' Monogram Club had as its main purpose the promoting of school spirit and sportsmanship. Any girl who lettered in varsity cheerleading or basketball was eligible to join. The club encouraged girls to participate in the athletic programs and school-sponsored activities, with more emphasis on girls' basketball. This was done in hopes of getting more members on the basketball team which, in turn, would increase club membership. The girls also made Homecoming more special by selling blue and white mums as a project for the school year.

Lettermen's Club Earns Money for Senior Jackets

All lettermen in Watauga's various sports were members of the Lettermen's Club. Developing the minds and attitudes of the participators, improving the athletic program, and building better Christian athletes were major objectives of the club.

By sponsoring dances and other activities, the club paid for senior letter jackets, signifying senior membership in the club. As a stand-in for the Distributive Club and for a money-making project, the Lettermen worked at the concession stand at basketball games, selling drinks and popcorn and seeing that no fan succeeded in taking concessions into the gymnasium.

WATAUGA HIGH
BOWL

The athletic department at Watauga High School was well-equipped, and each participator in the sports offered was able to develop his own potential. Each player learned the value of teamwork and achievement. The physical and mental capacities of each athlete were tested and strained as the players tasted the discouragement of defeat and the exultation of victory.

WHS Pioneers Win Sportsmanship Runner-Up Trophy

Several Pioneer fans "zero in" on the baseball field to watch the Watauga High team struggle for another victory against their opponents.

The students of Watauga were deeply involved in supporting the team's efforts to win on the courts at home as well as on opponents' courts.

Behind the success of Watauga High School's athletic teams was the enthsiastic support given by the cheerleaders, fans, and students. The cheerleaders introduced new cheers and helped the fans learn to be school-spirited without offending the opposing team's fans. The cheerleaders, under the direction of Miss Delilah Lesley, sponsor, did an excellent job of helping Watauga win the Sportsmanship Runner-up Trophy.

The Pioneer games were very well attended by county fans, as well as by parents and students. The pride and support given to the teams bolstered their efforts to win.

Battling his way through the Morganton defense, Reggie Weber picks up speed and dashes down the field on his way to score another Pioneer touchdown in the 1968-69 season opener.

Watauga High School proved itself a complete team and demonstrated this on the field. The opening game with Morganton displayed the confidence and enthusiasm the team had. Their winning streak – broken only once by a tie game with Hudson – proved that the Pioneers had conquered all the faults of the previous years. Watauga became, for the first time in the school's history, Northwestern Conference champions.

In the bi-conference play-off, the Pioneers made a few mistakes; these, coupled with bad breaks, resulted in a game loss to Chase High School in the game which closed the school's season.

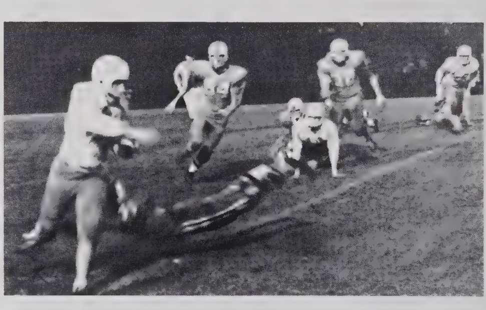
Six Pioneer Grid Stars on All-Conference Team

Tackles David Profitt and Mike Williams discuss the defensive stragedy they plan to use during the game with rival Wilkes Central.

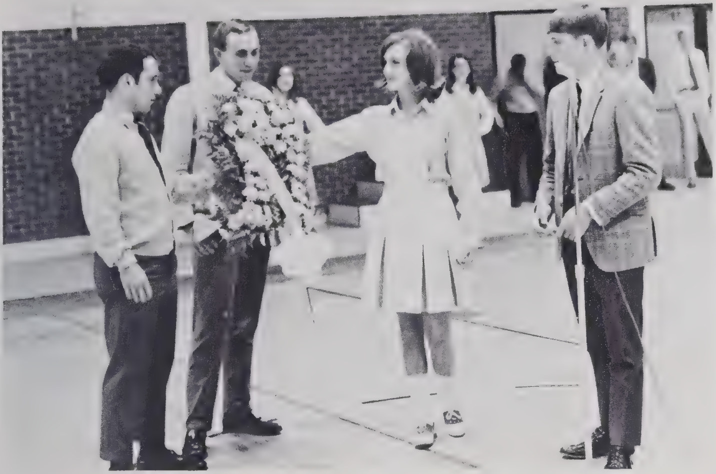
Several Pioneers show their elation as the Watauga defense scores two points — the first "safety" in the school's four-year history.

Six boys from the Pioneer team were selected as "All-Conference" players for the state's Northwestern Conference. These boys had shown superior teamwork and a personal competency in their particular positions. Andy High, David Bolick, Tony Triplette, Terry Taylor, Sonny Cook, and J. C. Triplett were chosen on the basis of their progress in the 1968 season.



Sonny Cook dodges one would-be tackler and strives to gain additional valuable yardage in the Pioneer offensive team's drive.

The year's most-improved back, Craig Rigsby, is finally downed by an Avery County tackler after gaining several valuable yards for the Watauga team.



Chief cheerleader Ollie Jackson presents to the team co-captains, Sonny Cook and J. C. Triplett, one of the three "Good Luck" wreaths that were sent to the school's football team by an anonymous fan.

Defensive safety Greg Nichols prepares to run back a punt against Newton-Conover High School in the second game of the Northwestern Conference season.

J.V. Gridders Reveal Promising Varsity Future

Junior varsity football players concentrate as Coach Carter Lentz outlines the tactics for the second half of a football game.

The Jayvee girdders had their "ups and downs" during the 1968 football season. After a disappointing opening, the junior Pioneers seemed to alternate wins and losses. In their second game, the Jayvees defeated West Wilkes, 19-0. This game was followed by a loss to Taylorsville; a 12-6 win over Wilkes Central, and two more losses. Of the next four games, they gained a 13-0 win over Avery and a 20-19 win over Maiden. Their constant effort and perseverance resulted in a 4-6 final record.

Working with the junior varsity boys were head coach, Carter Lentz, and his two assistants, Bob Harmon and Bill Brown.

The junior varsity basketball team gave evidence of the persistant and exacting training that their coach, Mr. Lewis Coffey, had subjected them to by winning their first game, with Lenoir High School. This fine beginning was followed by a bad defeat from Marion, a strong opponent, and a sizeable victory over the Morganton Jayvees. They proved themselves a capable team, ready to take on the tougher competitors of the state's Northwestern Coference.

Even though the team showed great perseverance and an unwillingness to give up, their final record was 5 wins and 15 losses.

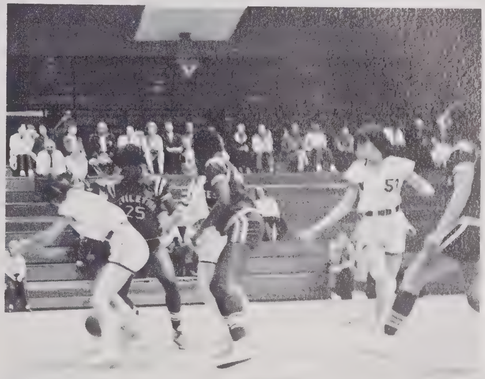
The girls' basketball team was composed of twenty-one girls, most of them freshmen, who were out to gain valuable experience for the future girls' team. Also on the team were several veteran players who had played for three or four years.

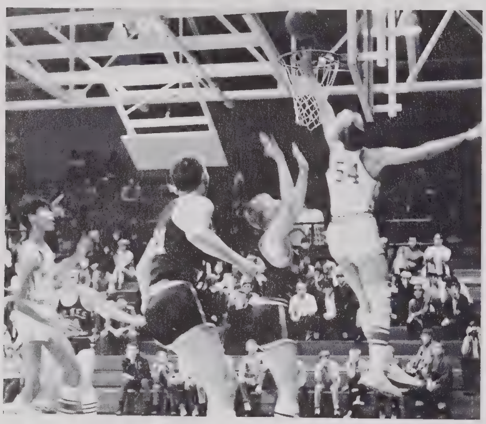
The co-captains for the year were senior Minnie Adams and junior Kay Oaks. Minnie Adams, Kay Oaks, and Jane Shearin were the team's leading scorers, with Debbie Autrey, Jimmie Cole, and Rachel Oaks rounding out the starting team. These girls, in spite of winding up with a losing season, gave each game the effort and determination needed in training for future years.



Two Pioneers and two girls from Newton-Conover scramble for the ball as several basketball fans seem to be enjoying the action.

Jane Shearin (No. 10) waits patiently in the open as freshman teammate Rachel Oaks, under the eagle eye of the referee, dribbles downcourt.

Pioneers Only Team in Conference to Defeat Avery



"Easy does it!" Wayne Craig shows the correct way to shoot a left-handed lay-up and score two points past two Wilkes Central opponents.

As Jimmy Baker and the Watauga basketball fans look on, senior Dave Bolick chalks up two more points for the Pioneer basketball team.

This was the fourth year that Watauga High School participated in the Northwestern Conference. Known from previous years as a difficult team to beat, this year's team was proved no less, although it lacked a little of the playing experience that the former teams had possessed. However, the fans and many supporters of the Pioneers and the efficient coaching of Carter Lentz and the managers were good morale boosters and the team showed them some good action and teamwork. Most of the games were lost by a small margin of points, demonstrating the fact that the boys had plenty of potential and enthusiasm.

Lack of Experience Revealed by Cagers' Record

The 1968-69 basketball season started badly for the Pioneer basketball team. With four consecutive losses showing a deflating beginning, the varsity team began a winning streak by defeating Beaver Creek High School. This taste of victory profited the team for the remainder of the season as they finished with five consecutive wins, sparked by an upsetting victory over an unbeaten competitor, Avery County High School.

The team played Morganton in the conference play-offs and were defeated. Despite the bad breaks, the team demonstrated their superiority in their over-all court performance.

The Pioneers lead, 14-8, as Reggie Weber, Jimmy Baker, and Wayne Craig get ready to grab the rebound in case the two-pointer should fail.

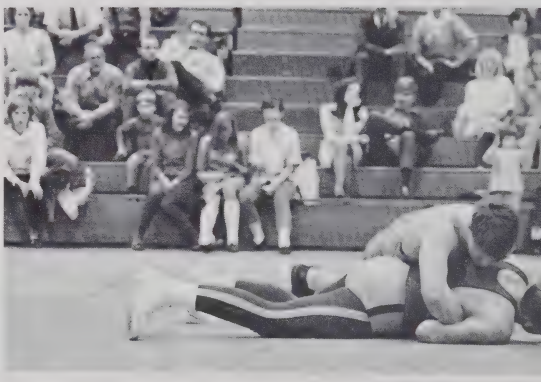
Triplett Wins Association Matmen Championship

The wrestling team began their season with a victory over Avery High School. This began a winning streak for the Pioneers as three more opponents—Wilkes Central, Mooresville, and Lenoir—were defeated in decisive victories. The larger teams from Tuscola, Myers Park, and Statesville provided more resistance against Watauga's matmen; but the team came through again with victories over Central Davidson and Beaver Creek.

The boys demonstrated great skill and a knowledge of how to handle themselves, as was evidenced by their successful efforts to win, with much credit going to the coach, Bill Brown.



Local fans watch the action on the mat as senior David Profitt attempts a "half-nelson" hold on his opponent in the 196-pound weight category.

Senior co-captain Danny Hayes has his arm raised by the referee, signifying a victory over his opponent in the 145-pound class.

Watauga High School won the Alleghany Invitational Tournament held in Sparta, and eight of their wrestlers won first-place trophies. The other members of the team were also successful, capturing three fourth-place positions, one third-place and one second-place position. Senior wrestler Danny Hayes was voted the most outstanding wrestler of the tournament.

In the Associational Tournament held in Salisbury, the Pioneer wrestlers were defeated by North Rowan High School and finished fourth after having defeated their own conference foes.

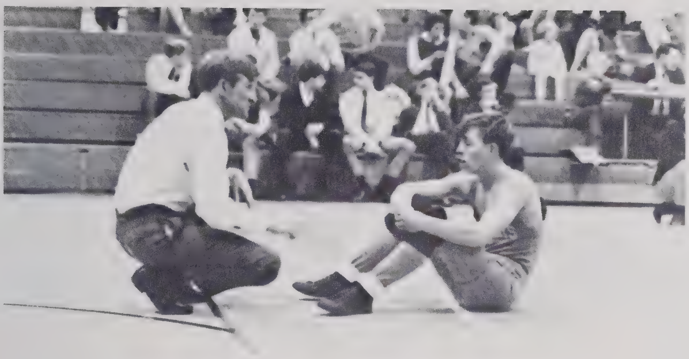
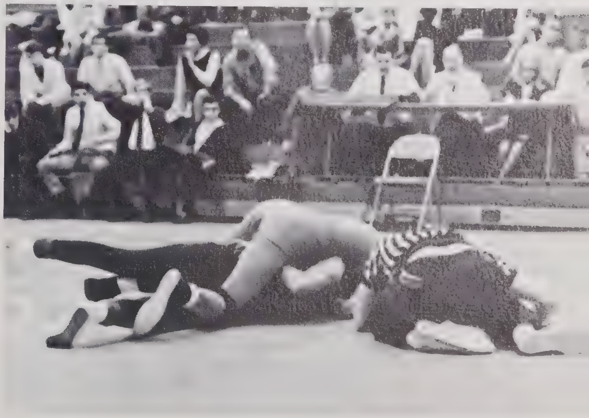
David Richardson, Danny Hayes, Marc Thalheimer, John Elder, Terry Carroll, Bob Brown, and other teammates wait patiently for their turn to wrestle as their coach, Bill Brown, watches the mat action.



Coach Brown, whose suggestions often led to victory, talks with Frankie Bumgarner about the strategy and some of the moves that he should use in the upcoming period to defeat his opponent.

Association champion Butch Triplett shakes hands with the opponent he has just defeated. Sportsmanship played a key role in Pioneer athletics.

The referee looks for a "pin." This was the case quite often before the Watauga Pioneers' season ended with a record of seven wins and four losses.



Watauga High Defeats Favored Wilkes Central

A frustrating season for the Pioneer baseball team! The regular season play ended and the Pioneers had recorded only one win—against Wilkes Central—to eight losses. There were a few impressively close games, but it seemed that the errors made during critical moments of play were detrimental to any success for the team.

The regular pitchers for the team were J. C. Triplett, Terry Triplett, and Wayne Craig. These three boys and Terry Taylor and James Hodges were the leading scorers for Watauga, hitting better than .250 for their season average.

Senior J. C. Triplett "warms up" with two bats before going to bat in the game against Lenoir High School.

Third baseman James Hodges, one of Watauga's better hitters, connects with seemingly little effort on an opponent's pitch.

Butch Triplett looks to see if the coast is clear enough for him to try to stretch a double out of his base hit in the baseball game against a tough team from Lenoir High School.

Reggie Weber, Bill Wilcox, Red Trivette, and Ronnie Price regularly won or placed very high in the 220- and 100-yard runs, the triple jump, and the 440- and 880-relay teams.

The Pioneer team played host at the conference meet held at ASU's Conrad Stadium. The winners and runners-up in this particular contest were eligible to compete in the bi-conference meet at ASU and at the association meet held in Shelby.

Golfers Win First Place in Pre-Conference Match

Golf season for the Watauga team began in April. The first two games, with Taylorsville and Wilkes Central, brought victories to the nine golfers. Despite this fine beginning, Watauga placed fourth in matches involving Taylorsville, Wilkes Central and Morganton. At Avery High School, the location of the regular season conference matches, the team finished third.

The top four scorers of the season were David Bolick, David Cottrell, Eric Larson, and Joey Maples. Coach Ken Humphries and his team proved the hard work spent in training by the general improvement by all the players and the consistent low scores.

David Bolick, a senior golfer who has been a member of the golf team for all four years of its existence, concentrates on "teeing off."

David Cottrell, junior golfer, ponders what to do for his next putt.

The proper form needed to complete a perfect drive and to control the ball smoothly is demonstrated by senior golfer Ricky Robbins.

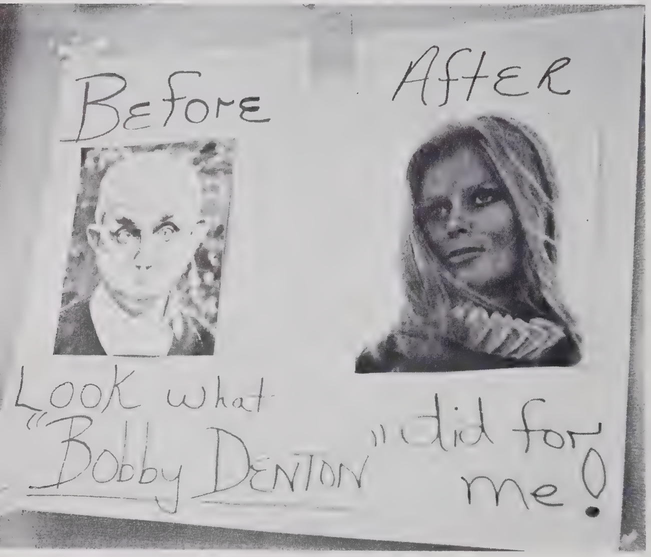
STUDENT LIFE



Before
After
Look what "Bobby DENTON" did for me!

The heartbeat of Watauga High School was its many activities and social affairs offered to the students during the school year. There was an intellectual side to learning, but there was also a social aspect to education. The intimacy and companionship offered by the get-togethers cheered and matured the students as they learned compatibility in a group relationship.

Steve Sanders and photographer Marc McGuire were among those who toured DELMAR PRINTING COMPANY in Charlotte to see how a yearbook is published.

This group of boys, gathered on the student lobby steps, is one of the common sights seen each day during the two 20-minute lunch periods.

Between classes, during lunchtime, and at breaks during club meetings, students found time to get together and talk. A general bull session between a group of boys gathered on the steps of the student lobby, two students taking time to "mug" for the camera, a group of students and their adviser posing for a casual shot during a break from a tour at the yearbook company, or a "shop-talk" discussion with a Marine representative—all of these were "goof-off" times where students could relax and talk over good times with friends. These spare moments during the day counted very much to students.

W.H.S. Homecoming Celebrated by a Victory Dance

The 1968 homecoming began with a football game with Taylorsville, which ended in victory. During half-time the homecoming court was introduced and the queen was crowned. The Future Teachers of America sponsored a victory dance following the game.

The Homecoming Dance, sponsored by the Student Council and attended by over 300 students and alumni, was held in the student lobby that evening, with the queen and her court again being presented. Music was provided by the "Time Machine," and the student lobby was decorated to resemble a miniature football field, including goal posts placed at each end of the lobby.

Jack Henson places the homecoming queen's crown on the head of senior Ollis Jackson during half-time ceremonies of the Watauga-Taylorsville game.

Mike Thomas and Donald Dotson "dish out the dough" for their admission ticket to the Homecoming Dance, which followed a victorious ballgame.

SCHOOL

Watauga County fans turn out in spite of the muggy, rainy weather to see Watauga High School's homecoming parade, led by the ever-enthusiastic cheerleaders and band. Being the only high school in Watauga County, the school draws its supporters from all four corners of the county.

The Homecoming Dance was one of the year's dances to which "outsiders" were invited, these being Watauga High School's alumni from three previous years.

"Clean-Up Day" Stresses School Beautification

Gary Warren and Gary Norris pause for a short break between classes at one of the outside smoking areas provided for the students' use.

For the first time at Watauga, the Student Council sponsored a "Clean-Up Day" campaign. This project included the making of posters to stir up enthusiasm for the work. A "Clean-Up Day" was also included. The regularly scheduled afternoon classes were forgotten as students and teachers alike pitched in to clean windows, desks, blackboards, erasers, lockers, and bookshelves. Students were permitted to change from regular school clothes into shorts, slacks, or a more comfortable "cleaning" outfit. The success of the day and the spirit exhibited by the students insured this as an activity for future years.

Gina Sanders' face registers the disgust she feels over the state of her locker on "Clean-Up Day," a student project for school cleanliness.

These girls begin their own personal cleaning by starting on their lockers. "Clean-Up Day" was something new this year and proved to be a big success; afternoon classes were forgotten.

Tim Wilson is caught smoking a cigarette as he awaits his copy of Volume III of the MUSKET, which was distributed in August.

Members of the Watauga High School band enthusiastically play "On Watauga" as the rest of the student body hurriedly file into the gymnasium for a regularly scheduled football pep rally.

All students became involved as the school year progressed in the various extra-curricular activities of the school. In the fall, assemblies brought the students together as one body to enjoy programs put on for their benefit. School dances found those interested in the music and those interested in the sociability gathered on common terms. As the time for school elections drew near, nominees running for important student body offices turned out posters, banners, and other propaganda to draw voter attention; other contests on a popularity basis were also another factor of the involvement of Watauga High School life.

The annual Sweetheart Dance, sponsored by the freshman class, was held on February 15. Music was provided by a local group called "The Eros." The Valentine decorations included different sizes of red hearts bordered with white lace.

The "Sweetheart Court," sponsored by the Powder Horn, was elected for the first time, with no stipulation as to class representation. Sharon Blair, a freshman, was crowned the first "Sweetheart Queen," and her attendants were senior Judy Greene, junior Lucille Welborn, and sophomores Dorinda Moretz and Kathy Aldridge. More than seventy couples attended the dance.

Judy Greene, who was presented as a member of the beauty court, did much of the art work that was done for the dance and other school events.

Intramurals Provide Sports Activity for Students

Tommy Pitts and Johnny Cornett await the toss by the official, Bud Beaks, during intramurals play-off. Other team members—Mr. Brown, Hugh Mast, Roland Hardy, and Mr. Edmisten—watch eagerly.

Intramurals were sponsored by the Student Council of Watauga High School. Girls' and boys' teams, composed of students and faculty members, were formed; and each team was scheduled to play another team on a designated night each week.

The play-offs between the two winning girls' teams and the two winning boys' teams were held during school hours. Students were charged an admission fee of 25 cents, with proceeds going to the Student Council to be divided accordingly among the participating departments in return for use of the facilities.

Pat Davis, Sarah Coffey, and Elizabeth Clawson enjoy their "honor study hall," a privilege earned by all seniors having at least a "B" average.

There was always a time and place provided for studying: in the classroom, in the student lobby during "honor study hall," on the stairways, on the courtyard walls, and other spots known only by the students themselves. School and homework could be exciting, especially when one could gain practical experience by actually going out and working in a local store or office.

Students found that in many of their classes the old-fashioned lecture method of teaching had given way to more student participation in the various classes, making it possible for students and teachers to gain more rapport in their relationships.

Attired in their Dogpatch garments, Watauga High students and faculty set the pace for Sadie Hawkins Day with a square dance held in the student lobby.

The festive spirit reached a peak at the Sadie Hawkins Dance, sponsored by the sophomore class. Music was provided by the "Distant Blue" as the hillbillies swung their partners in the lobby, which was decorated with hay bales and cornstalks. Bobby Denton was the acting "Marryin' Sam."

"Daisy Mae" and "Li'l Abner" were judged by the audience's applause. Winning the titles were Mrs. Penick and Joe Wilson.

Debbie Winkler and Danny Hayes analyze the legality of their Dogpatch marriage certificate. "Marryin' Sam" issued many such certificates.

Riely Carroll, portraying Mary Warren, pleads to the court to believe that she is innocent of the charge of conjuring the devil.

Seniors Present Arthur Miller's "The Crucible"

"The Crucible," a tragedy by Arthur Miller, was presented by the 1969 senior class as the annual senior play. The play, set in Salem Village, Massachusetts, during the witchcraft scare of the 1600's was presented to Watauga High School students for an admission fee of 50 cents. The money collected was given to the school as a gift from the senior class.

Mr. William Ross did an excellent job of directing the twenty members and in helping them to properly interpret their roles. As a result of his work, the cast portrayed their roles with great understanding and maturity. The leading roles were:

Abigale Williams	Teresa Robinson
John Proctor	Robert Melton
Reverend Hale	Gray Wilson
Mary Proctor	Ollie Jackson

Abigale Williams, played by Teresa Robinson, looks horrified as John Procter (Robert Melton) threatens to reveal her true character.

The reverend Mr. Hale (Gray Wilson) praises God; along with Titchuba (Leigh Godwin) who seeks repentance by conjuring up spirits of the dead.

Play cast members Harrison Metcalf, Robert Melton, and Ricky Robbins make a quick review of their lines before appearing in their next scene.

John Proctor (Robert Melton) threateningly points his gun at officials, played by Danny Hayes and Terry Taylor, who have come to take his wife to jail on charges of witchcraft.

"Days of Wine and Roses" Junior-Senior Theme

Wine bottles used for candleholders and red, white, yellow, and pink roses set the mood for the Junior-Senior Prom. The theme for the prom was "Days of Wine and Roses." The Dale Van Combo was there to entertain the guests; and, as soon as the music started, young men in dinner jackets and tux led their dates, who were dressed in long, formal gowns, onto the dance floor. Refreshments were served in the "Wine Cellar" to each guest. The festivities were carried on until midnight; afterwards, people gathered at parties and their favorite "hang-outs" until the girls' curfew hour for this special occasion arrived.

The atmosphere created made the prom more special for the seniors, and the success of the dance was the result of the juniors' hard work.

Dan Williams (dark coat), along with other guests attending the Junior Senior, dance to the music which was provided by the Dale Van Combo.

Before the music started, guests at the Junior-Senior were content to talk to one another and admire the student lobby with its colorful decorations, set off by girls' formal gowns and hairstyles.

Richard Reiman and Connie Stanberry return to the dancing area from the "Wine Cellar" where they have been served refreshments by the juniors.

Mr. and Mrs. Penick, Mrs. McConnell, Mrs. Hugh Hagaman, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Coffey, Mr. and Mrs. Harwood, and other parents and faculty members enjoy a little rest and conversation at the prom.

The 1969 graduating class of 250 students, 27 of which earned the title "honor graduate" by ranking scholastically in the top 10 percent of the class, prepare to march out of the gymnasium to the music of Huldigungs March at the conclusion of the baccalaureate service, held on June 1.

Graduates Hear Inspiring Baccalaureate Sermon

The Reverend Donald Wilson began the baccalaureate service, held in the Watauga High School gymnasium on Sunday, June 1, 1969, by giving the invocation. The Watauga Choral Ensemble and Mixed Chorus, under the direction of Mr. J. E. Wilson, then performed two anthems from Leisring and Schubert. The Reverend Gray Temple, Jr., delivered the sermon to the graduates. At the conclusion of the sermon, the Reverend Byrd Metcalf gave the benediction and the class of 1969 marched from the gymnasium to the music of Huldigungs March performed by the Watauga band, under the direction of Mr. Otis Strother.

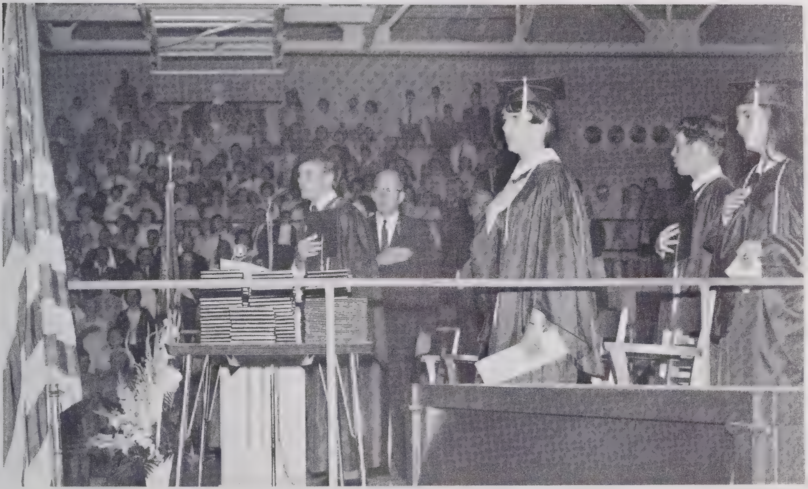
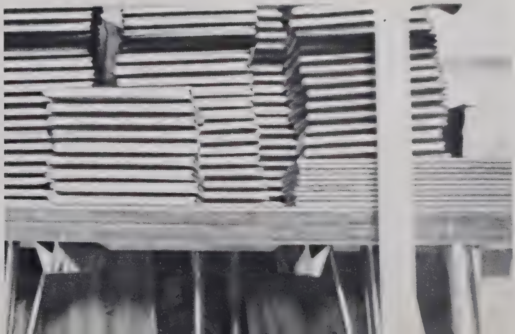
Melton, Brashear, Wilson, Graduation Speakers



Dr. Miller and graduation speakers, Susan Lawrence, Robert Melton, and Ann Brashear join Paul Miller in the "Pledge of Allegiance" to the United States flag. The graduation exercises were underway.

Lee Godwin smiles proudly as Dr. Miller congratulates her, as he did the other graduates, on receiving her long-awaited diploma.

Graduation exercises began with the "Pledge of Allegiance," led by Paul Miller, and a devotional and song by Susan Lawrence. Following a performance by the Choral Ensemble and the Mixed Chorus, graduation speeches were given by Robert Melton, on "Crisis and Decision—State"; by Ann Brashear, on "Crisis and Decision—Society"; and by Gray Wilson, on "Crisis and Decision—Individual." Dr. Miller presented diplomas, the senior class was recognized, and the official declaration of graduation was made by John Hollar, chairman of the Watauga County Board of Education. Two hundred fifty seniors walked out into the future.



HONORARIES

During the 1968-69 school year Watauga awarded its conventional honors as well as initiated some new ones. For the first time Watauga crowned a Sweetheart Queen. Students were also awarded for excellence in athletics, music and academics. The grand finale of Watauga's recognitions was senior "Awards Day" when outstanding seniors received their last high school recognition.

Beauties Reign at 1969 Homecoming Festivities

The 1968 Homecoming festivities began with a victory for the Pioneers over Taylorsville High School. During half-time, "Homecoming Queen" Ollie Jackson, riding in a 1968 Oldsmobile – courtesy of Mr. Spencer Robbins – was presented to Watauga's alumni and fans. Her attendants, riding in a 1969 Mustang – courtesy of a local dealer – were introduced as the representatives from the respective classes.

The formal coronation ceremony and presentation of the court was held the following night at the Homecoming Dance. Miss Jackson was crowned by Paul Miller, president of the Student Council.

Three girls and one boy, having the highest grades of the junior class, were selected to be chief marshals. Leadership and character were personified in these juniors as they performed these many tasks to make graduation more special to the graduating class of 1969.

Student sales and advertising income are the two ways by which the MUSKET is financed. The more advertising income received, the less each student must pay for his book. It is with genuine feeling, therefore, that we say to the business firms shown on the following pages, "Thank you for your consistant interest and financial support."

WATAUGA
SAVINGS
& LOAN ASSOCIATION

Building for your future

The Watauga Savings and Loan Association has had a part in the growth of this area since 1921. We have noted with pride the construction and development of Watauga High School.

Quality education is much more important than it was a few years ago. The administration and faculty along with the students have proven in one year that Watauga is the type of educational institution which is needed in this changing world of today.

The people of Watauga Savings and Loan Association also feel very strongly about quality. We require quality in all the homes we finance. We offer the best rates available on your savings. Put these together and you have a sound financial institution.

EDITORS' LAST WORD

All the "blood, sweat, and tears" that the entire annual staff and our adviser have put into this book's production can hardly be described on this page! We all laughed a lot and managed to cut up in between our working hours; and, as representative of the others' feelings, we can honestly say it was fun and well worth the hours spent.

Mostly, it brought us closer to the school. We were really caught up in the mainstream of the school's life; and we had to be familiar with each schedule, each event, and each activity pertaining to Watauga students. We attended dances, athletic events, induction ceremonies, classes, and club meetings we had never before known existed.

We want this book to invoke the unpleasant as well as the happy memories, the bad days as well as the good, the personal triumphs and defeats, the classes, the students, the feeling Watauga conveys to each student—and that is a big order. It is up to the students to decide how well we have succeeded.

Many thanks to our hard-working, trustworthy staff and their overtime work, and especially to our faithful adviser to whom we owe the debt of fidelity to the end.
